Thefe

Threat Cantabrigiones,

Thefe different colours now are mist in me, And make a levely Confellation: Which will in double theroglyphics fben, How like the Rofe was Charles, the Lily You, How like that bumble plant, you yielding bore Those fatal blasts, which stubborn Oaks have tore. How you have kept your native white fo pure, No little Spot its luftre could obfcure. When three whole Nations mere imbro'd in blond, No drop could frain it in that crimfon floud, Though sometimes grief might like a cloud appear, When for thy Charles thou didft let fall a tear. Though gloomy forres might thy Soul befet, Thy white (hin'd purer, through that vail of jet. Thy native dreffer, like to Lilses, be Greater than Solomon in's Bravery. But then Great Q I R R N like them by deaths cold blaff Art now nipt down , like them grown pale at laf. Ab that our tears could but have kept alive Thy Royal Stemm, as plants in mater thrive! W had daily fled them and by that device Kept thee from darkneffe or wept out our eyes.

Sam. Philipps, B. A. Magd, Coll.

Bright Saint, thy pardon, if my fadder verse
Appear in sighing o're thy glorious steats.

To envy beaven: for same it self non wears

Griefes Livery, and only speaks in searts.

On the death of the QUEEN Mother of England,

S when some ancient Oak that long had stood, And [preading far became it felf a wood; Down to the earth its Reverend tranck do's yield, It hakes the bumble Shrubs within the field; And they, though low, do feel the thunder-ftroak, Which was intended onely at the Oak: So we in Princes falls concerned are, Monarchs that would forbid it, Tyrants were. In fuch a cafe, our eyes would Rebels proves Kings may restrain all passions, but our love. If none might weep but those as great as She, Or elfe as good; few then would maurners be. Thole famous Eastern Sages, who of old Did bring their mirrh, their frankincenfe, and gold, Our age, and juftly, into Queftien brings, Whether they were Philosophers, or Kings, To you, Great Charles , as King all is not due ? We may have right to bring our offerings tao. They in the East did with their incense run, As well to rifing Princes , as the Sun ; All that our Western Sages da implore Is, that a fetting Qu n n they may adore.

A better Crown encirles now,

Not lin'd with cares, which earthly scepters find,

Whose gaudy lustre we admire,

And with fond passion that desire,

That ruffles and disturbs the calimness of the mind.

Now a bleft Haven then baft found, and a control in process.
